This is rich.

Assange's attorney says it is highly "irresponsible...to put in a public filing information that clearly was not intended for the public and without any notice" washingtonpost.com/world/national...

Barry J. Pollack, one of Assange's attorneys, said, "The only thing more irresponsible than charging a person for publishing truthful information would be to put in a public filing information that clearly was not intended for the public and without any notice to Mr.
 Assange. Obviously, I have no idea if he has actually been charged or for what, but the notion that the federal criminal charges could be brought based on the publication of truthful information is an incredibly dangerous precedent to set."

The Honorable Kirstjen M. Nielsen
Secretary
U.S. Department of Homeland Security
3801 Nebraska Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20528

Dear Secretary Azar and Secretary Nielsen,

We, the undersigned Attorneys General, write with great concern regarding new and onerous requirements that have delayed and, in many instances, prevented the placement of unaccompanied migrant children with family members and other appropriate sponsors in our states and across the country. Specifically, we are alarmed by the consequences of a policy requiring the collection of biometric and background information from all household members in prospective sponsors' homes and the automatic sharing of that information with Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE). This policy causes unnecessary delays and imposes unjustified burdens in the sponsorship process. Additionally, the policy leaves many prospective sponsors—including some who are parents of the children in question—with the untenable choice of either leaving children to languish in federal custody or coming forward and exposing themselves or loved ones to immigration enforcement. The result is that migrant children, many of them fleeing violence and persecution in their home countries, suffer prolonged detention instead of being reunited with family members or other appropriate adults who can provide them with loving homes. We strongly urge you to immediately reverse this policy.

Earlier this year, the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR), under a Memorandum of intergovernmental agreement, was required to ensure that all rights to such homes subject to fingerprinting and background checks and that ORR must first coordinate with ICE. We appreciate the need to ensure proper vetting of sponsors and the need to ensure that children are placed in safe homes. However, the requirement that all household members be fingerprinted and background checked is a significant barrier to sponsorship. The requirement that all household members be fingerprinted and background checked is a significant barrier to sponsorship. The requirement that all household members be fingerprinted and background checked is a significant barrier to sponsorship.

In practice, this policy has only served to delay the placement of children in safe homes. It has caused significant hardship for children and their families. It has caused significant hardship for children and their families. It has caused significant hardship for children and their families. It has caused significant hardship for children and their families. It has caused significant hardship for children and their families.

Furthermore, and particularly in the field of child and adolescent development, the requirement that all household members be fingerprinted and background checked is a significant barrier to sponsorship. It is a significant barrier to sponsorship. It is a significant barrier to sponsorship. It is a significant barrier to sponsorship. It is a significant barrier to sponsorship.

Increasingly, leveraged loans in the United States are held by collateralized loan obligations and asset managers.
(CLO issuance and loan fund assets, in billions of dollars)

Sources: EPFR Global, Standard & Poor's Leveraged Commentary and Data, and IMF staff calculations
Note: 2018 CLO data is through Q3 and annualized to estimate full-year 2018 issuance AUM = assets under management; CLO = collateralized loan obligation; ETF = exchange-traded fund

Milder air evolves next week to 10 days, but look out end of month first 10 days of Dec. Very similar pattern to dec 1977, cold front 10, moderation mid 10, then back to cold later
